Listen: Dr. Nora Volkow, Director, National Institute on Drug Abuse, NIH

Season: 1
| Episode: 5
In recognition of mental health awareness, tech has much potential during the pandemic's self-isolation practices.
Dr. Nora Volkow, Director, National Institute on Drug Abuse, NIH
Mon, 05/18/2020 - 12:33

World-renowned psychiatrist Dr. Nora Volkow discusses how the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted those suffering from substance use disorder and drug-related illness, as well as the roles that telehealth and innovative treatment methods play during this time. This is the first part of a series in recognition of Mental Health Awareness Month.

View printer friendly version