Listen: Alice Hong, Director, National Urban Security Technology Laboratory, DHS

Season: 3
| Episode: 2
National security efforts include means to protect and coordinate with the nation's first responders.
Alice Hong, Director, National Urban Security Technology Laboratory, DHS
Thu, 05/21/2020 - 10:09

NUSTL Director Alice Hong discusses the lab's coordination with our nation's first responders on testing and evaluating cutting-edge technologies, from protective gloves to in-suit communication devices. We also talk about training exercises for radiological and nuclear incidents and active shooter scenarios, as well as how NUSTL is aiding in COVID-19 response efforts.

View printer friendly version
CyberCast
research
national security
coronavirus
Podcast