Tech influenced more than telework as health professionals dealt with changing the stigma of talking about changing behavioral needs during social distancing. Mannan Dasti, CIO, NIMH

Fri, 12/18/2020 - 10:11

Mannan Dasti, CIO at the National Institute of Mental Health, discusses how the agency is focused on the holistic view of technology. He describes the importance that apps work together and for data to be shared across multiple systems in order for the scientific community to make complete decisions. The public and health professionals can address and tackle the stigma around mental health issues by promoting technical benefits.